Westie . . .

As we the senior class of 1985 now depart, we look back on the school that has been a home to us for four years. We look back on those years sometimes with happiness, sometimes with sadness, but always with pride. We have traveled these four years with ups and downs, triumphs and defeats. Yet through it all the pride shows through. Pride because at this school we have received a decent education and a chance for a future filled with success. Here we have a chance which now we take into our own hands to shape and form into what we want to be. With the knowledge we have received we can be sure that we will do well. We can be proud of what we have achieved and along with our teachers hold our heads high with pride as we forge ahead strong and sure to leave our mark on the world.

Headmaster's Message to the Class of 1985

Donald Pellegrini

It is with great pride that I offer you, the Class of 1985, congratulations and best wishes.

However, it is important to know that the task that lies ahead of you is a difficult one, and you will encounter many obstacles along the way.

The industrial age, as your parents knew it, is all but over and the age of information is upon us. We are surrounded by change in the form of high technology, telecommunications, robotics, microelectronics, and on and on. This age of information is bringing, and will continue to bring, more knowledge than out present industrial-age-thinking can handle.

The miracle of the microchip has cast us into an unknown region; storing and processing at an incredible rate of speed. As a result, the image of tomorrow is difficult to project; and the reality of today is one of immediacy . . . filled with fast cars, fast foods, fast music and fast rewards.

We must do more than just get by in the present. We must prepare for the future, otherwise today's satisfaction may become tomorrow's frustration. Tomorrow is your today . . . embrace the opportunities of this marvelous age of information; use them creatively and logically, so that tomorrow will fulfill your every dream!!!
